Advanced Research

Advanced Research

With a diverse partner research different books that are in your media center that celebrate cultural diversity. Design and illustrate a book cover for 2 to 4 of those books and create a poster to promote the reading of those books. Be sure to include the name of the author and illustrator. Also include a “teaser” summary inviting readers to read the book. Exhibit these posters around the school.

Communication

Group Communication:

Working with the diverse members of the Principal’s advisory committee, identify how different cultures celebrate important events during the school year. Create a Public Service Announcement that shares and celebrates the differences of cultures at your school.

Individual Verbal Communication:

Read a book about students of different cultures. Create a T-Chart showing qualities that are unique to each character and that are like each character. Then consider how you can appreciate the value of uniqueness of someone in your life. Prepare an informative or motivational speech sharing the value of uniqueness of the individual. Include 3 to 5 examples of Figurative Language to help illustrate your points.

Critical Thinking and Critical Problem-Solving Skills

Personal Research and Discovery:

With a partner create and conduct a survey of students in your school about various cultural issues. Include problems they face and the atmosphere that exists in the school. After obtaining results from the survey, determine the areas that are most problematic for students in your school. Brainstorm ways to resolve one of those problems and present your ideas to the principal. Include at least 3-5 examples of figurative language that help illustrate your points. Consider creating a chart or PowerPoint to present your ideas.

Creative Thinking and Creative Problem-Solving Skills

Creative Writing:

With a diverse partner, write a short story following the plot diagram that shows how students in your school can solve problems that arise because of cultural diversity. Include students of different cultural backgrounds and explain how the students overcome their differences to become supportive friends. Include at least 3-5 examples of figurative language that help illustrate your points. Use media resources to create an audio version of your story to be considered for upload to your school's webpage.

The following rubric can be used for the writing/audio piece together.

Awareness of Self—Student's Well-being

Positivity:

Create one of the following to share weekly to encourage all students to embrace and accept their cultural differences. Include 3-5 figurative language examples to illustrate your ideas.

1. Video PSA
2. Intercom Announcements
3. Skits shared in homeroom or at lunch
4. Bio poem to introduce the student to his/her class
5. Identify an artifact from a chosen culture and share the historical and cultural significance of the artifact. (Examples include clothing, music, food, objects, etc.)
